

Dear Fellow Arkansan,

Next week, the Congressional work period gets underway, and I'll be traveling across our state to visit with Arkansans on a range of issues, from health care to the economy to veterans' issues. Click here to view a list of my events for August 11-15.

The past few months have proven challenging for our country. I continue to hear from constituents concerned about our recovering economy. Rebuilding our nation's economy and putting 98,000 jobless Arkansans back to work is my top priority. It is important to keep in mind that our economic situation was not created overnight, nor will it be solved overnight. As health care premiums continue to rise for Arkansas's families and our nation continues to spend one of every six dollars on health care costs, reforming our health care system is an essential part of getting our economy back on track.

I look forward to being home and continuing my open dialogue with Arkansans on health care, the economy, and other issues. My door is always open, and you can contact my office by calling 1-800-352-9364 or 202-224-4843. You can also e-mail me or send a letter to 355 Dirksen Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C., 20510, or 912 West Fourth Street, Little Rock, AR, 72201.
